How to use this kit

This kit is built around the format we use ourselves when we host a quiz night for 50 guests: 5 rounds of 10 questions, scored out of 10 per round, with one tiebreaker held in reserve.

Print one copy of each round scoresheet per team and one master scoring sheet for yourself. After each round, collect the team sheets, mark them, transfer round totals to the master sheet, and read the leaderboard out before moving on. The transparency between rounds is what keeps a quiz night going — teams need to know they're in it.

The tiebreaker quick-reference is for the awkward moment when two teams finish on the same score. Numeric answers, closest wins. The picture round template gives you a printable answer sheet for image-based rounds (you supply the printed images). And the team-name suggestions are there because the bookings always include a team who forgot to think of one.

Need questions? The MojQuiz library at mojquiz.com has 13 categories × 3 difficulty levels — about 3,900 questions in total. Browse a category, copy 10 questions, and you have a round. The fastest way to prep a quiz night is to not write the questions yourself.
